Photography. Mirrorless cameras take great photos and video, whereas if a video camera even offers a still photo mode, it's sure to be underwhelming. Few video cameras will even allow you to take a raw photograph, and usually, the photo quality is no better than just pulling a frame from a video clip.

Why I shoot video with mirrorless cameras (and not video ...

This is the latest in our series of 'Quick Reviews.' We use this format for cameras that are operationally similar and identical in terms of output to models we've already reviewed. We test to confirm the image quality is identical (noise tests and shots of our 'compared to' studio scene at all ISOs), then concentrate the review on the differences between the two cameras.
